STAT

Dear [Redacted]

It has come to my attention that the Language Training Division of the Central Intelligence Agency wishes to enter into a License Agreement with Brigham Young University to use the software system driver of the Spanish Computer Adaptive Placement Exam (S-CAPE) in developing computer adaptive language proficiency tests. It is my understanding that this software will be used in CIA training divisions for "unclassified," non-covert purposes. Provided my understandings are correct, BYU will execute the proposed license agreement that has been supplied to the CIA allowing use of the software system.

Sincerely

F. LaMond Tullis
Associate Academic Vice President
